Dear Hope Street Fam,

There's something special about a place that keeps producing powerful stories. Stories are the fruit that quietly testify to our Father's work—tender evidence of healing, transformation, and love unfolding in real lives. At Hope Street, stories have been a balm for my own soul, something I've held onto through every season. Nearly fifteen years within these walls have woven countless names and faces into my life, each leaving their own imprint on my heart.

More than a decade ago, I began writing these stories down—at first simply as a way to process and remember. Over time, I felt a gentle nudge to share them. What began as reflection became Well Moments: Stories Inside a Greenhouse for People—a collection meant to be read, shared, and held together. This chapter book carries the heart of our work and bears witness to the transformative power of Love.

That same love inspired us to tell these stories through the eyes of children who live and play at Hope Street. Well Moments for Kids beautifully captures life inside the Greenhouse for People, inviting young readers into a world shaped by belonging and care. Through the voices of my own children, Jed and Eden, the story of Hope Street comes alive—reminding kids that Jesus meets each of us at the well and gives us exactly what we need to live a flourishing life.

Our hope with these books is simple and deep: to build community. Whether shared in a book club, one-on-one with a friend, or curled up on the couch with your family, stories are meant to be heard together. In remembering what God says is true of us—that we are beloved—we find healing.

Thank you for the ways you will help carry these stories forward. My prayer is that they would raise awareness, soften hearts, shift perspectives, and grow support for the beautiful work unfolding in our city. I look forward to seeing you at the launch and am deeply grateful for your consideration in helping make this event a success.

With gratitude,

Ashley N. Thomas
